

Abstract of the Invention

An apparatus for playing a game of golf for at least two players, each player having 5 a set of golf clubs including a plurality of irons, a plurality of woods and a putter, includes a game set of indicators that includes a club set of indicators bearing club identifications, a reserve set of indicators bearing reserve indications, a shot set of indicators bearing shot indications and a flag set of indicators bearing flag indications; and, a container for holding the game set of indicators and permitting a player to randomly and blindly draw one of the 10 indicators.